MUSICAL COURSE FOR

COMING WINTER Signor Bonci and Flonzaley Quartette the Superb Attractions Arranged by Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Tirrell.

The event of each season in the musical circles of Norwich and vicinity is the series of concerts given in Slater Memerial hall each year and arranged by Archibald Mitchell and Henry A. Tirrell. As these concerts are always of a high character, they appeal to all musical art if, its highest form and add to the prestige of Norwich as a city which appreciates the best that there is in music, whether instrumental or vocal.

The prometers of these concerts have been the means of bringing to Norwich many distinguished planists, illustrious violinists and eminent singers, but the programme they have un-ers, but the programme they have un der consideration for this season will surpass in excellence any musica course ever given in Norwich, and it course ever given in Norwich, and if the project receives from the music lovers the encouragement which it decerves, Norwich will be treated to a series of concerts that will command nublic interest and be long rememhered in musical circles.

The first concert of the season will take place on December 8, and will be given by the Flonzaley quartette, the finest string quartette in the world.
This excellent musical organization is no stranger in Norwich, having appeared here three years ago in the Academy Musical Course, on which cccasion it was most enthusiastically received. Since that time the recognition accorded this remarkable quartette has extended from one end of the tion accorded this remarkable quartette has extended from one end of the country to the other. Unstinted praise has followed its playing wherever it has been heard, and it will come to Norwich for the second time with the distinction of standing in the front in the world's quartettes. The tickets for the Fionzaley concert have been placed at the moderate price of $1, all seats reserved.

placed at the moderate price of al, an seats reserved.

In addition to bringing this remarkable quartette to Norwich, the plans of the promoters are broader still. An option has been secured for a concert on January 16, by Signor Alessandro Bonci, the world-renowned tenor of the company, now Bonci, the world-renowned tenor of the Manbattan Opera company, now touring in this country. This would be the musical sensation of the sea-son, and should the subscriptions war-rant it, the option would be closed, and for the first time in our musical che greatest living exponent of the art of singing" would be heard in Norwich.

Signor Bonci is generally recognized as the greatest of living tenors and in comparing him with Caruso, Mr. H. E. Krelibiel, musical critic of the New York Times, has this to say:

'In nearly all the things which enter into the art of vocalization Bonci is incomparably finer than his rival at the Metropolitan opera house. His tweet are impeccably pure, his command of breath perfect, his enunciation unrivalized by any singer now before the public, his phrasing also, his sense of proportion, symmetry and repose are exquisite. The voice is a pure tenor. It has a fine nobility in the nighest register, and in all its phases it is as completely under his command as are the keys of the pianoforte under the diacolically ingenious fingers of Rosenthal."

As has been already stated an op-ion has been secured for a concert by Bonci, and it remains entirely with the Penci, and it remains entirely with the public to say whether or not they will support the promoters in their efforts to provide the greatest musical treat ever given in Norwich. A subscription list has been placed in the store of George A Davis on Broadway and all who are desirous of hearing the distinguisheds singer are urged to enter their names on the subscription list at an early date. The price of tickets for the Bonci concert has been placed at 32. When it is considered that this popular Italian tenor is greet.

FINE COMEDY BILL AT THE AU-DITORIUM.

Everyone is talking about the fine vaudeville bill at this popular play-house for the first half of this week, and judging from the applause which each act received, it was hard to tell that was ever seen at this house and perform stunt after stunt which is extremely difficult, but still excruciatingly funny. All that need be said of Alfredo the violinist is "Wonderful," which is the idea in everybody's mind after hearing this exceptional musician. Lefavere and St. John please in every souse of the word with their in every sense of the word with their pinging and taking skit, and altogether the show is a banner one for the Au-ditorium thester.

Right on the heels of their great success in "The Man of the Hour," the Poli Players came back this week with one of the best comedy productions of the season in Lillian Russell's "Wildline." Indicating opposite types of character, the individual members of the company have shown themselves to be artists of versatility and experience. The play is by the author of "The Man of the Hour," assisted by George V Hobart, well known in present day magazines and dramatic cir-George V Hobert, well known in present day magazines and dramatic circuity and cles. It is bright, and witty, teeming with repartee and overflowing with spontaneous comelly. Again is the clever hand and brain of Stage Director Kirk seen in its every detail, and in addition he gives character and distinction to John Duffy, a follower of the race track, who is without character or distinction. Richard Calvert has an odd characterization in a reform fanatic from which he gets more than his share of comedy. Mr. Moore, Mr. Booth and Miss Hadley carry the principal story of the play on their shoulders in a clever and capable manner. Chappie Roster, by William shoulders in a clever and capable manner. An exceptionally elever western dra-ma is the feature picture at the Breed today and tells of Will Denton, a young society man, who makes a trip to the west. He is tricked and robbed by Al Martin 2 winer in bard lack west. He is tricked and robbed by Al-Martin, a miner in hard luck, Not only did Martin take his money, but he lock a letter of introduction to a big rancher, and a photo of the rancher, pretty daughter, With these he impersonated Dent a and Helen fell in love with him Later Denton escared from Martin's cabit and is lost in the desert. Martin returning, feared he had lost his way, and after a long hunt found him.

Because of Helen's love, the miner had been changed to a different man. He emptied his canteen down Den-ton's throat, put him on his horse, and brought him to the cabin. Then and brought him to the cabin. Then he dragged himself to Helen's home and confessed everything.

Cupid, instead of pulling out the arrows that he had shot into Helen's heart, only laughed and shot in a whole lot more. Splendid other drama and some carningly funny consider. and some genuinely funny comedy complete the very excellent bill.

POETRY.

THE MAID OF AUTUMN.

A maiden walks the hills today
In garb of pearl and sliver gray;
She wears a vell of jeweled mist
That can the keenest sight resist;
Her feet are bright in shiny shoon,
She moves as to a wedding tune.
And everywhere she gently goes
Fades every leaf, dies every rose.
The grasses change their summer hue.
The sky puts on a deeper blue;
The brook no more sings cheerily,
Its song grows dark, with mystery.
When the hills are gray with slant of rain
Some human hearts seek joy in vain;
The failing leaf, the fading rose
Each on their life a shadow throws.
They know of death, the long, deep sleep.

sleep, That partings come and hearts must But autumn has no grief for me, For I have solved the mystery; The maid who walks the quiet hills And charms the happy singing rills She is—her secret I'll confess— The Spring in just another dress.
